

BRIDGE CAR RUNS WILD; 11 INJURED

Fails to Take Switch and Jams Into Three Others on Queens Loop.

PLATFORMS SMASHED; 150 PEOPLE IN FEAR

Wooden Coaches, Standing Still, Splintered by Batter-ing of Steel.

A runaway car, bound from Queens through Fifty-ninth Street, crashed into three cars standing in the tunnel entrance at the Manhattan end of the Queensboro Bridge last night at 6:05 and injured eleven persons. The eleven went to Flower Hospital, but none was seriously hurt. There were more than 150 persons in the cars, and the panic that followed was beyond the control of the police and the railway employees. The rear of the car that bore the brunt of the collision was completely crushed, and the front of it also collapsed when it struck the rear of the car in front of it. Both ran to Steinway, Queens. This second car smashed its own front platform and the rear of a Flushing car that was awaiting its turn to enter the loop under the bridge.

The runaway car began to coast on the street side of the bridge just as the automatic electric switch that would have turned it into its own track leading off the bridge failed to work. The motorman, Joseph Hatchett, stuck to his post, but was unable to stop the car. He escaped with contusions.

The others who were treated at Flower Hospital by Dr. Chase and Dr. Salzberg were:

Joseph Tyner, 375 Eleventh Avenue, Astoria; John Camarota, 149 East Thirteenth Street; Mrs. Mary Hayes, 345 East 126th Street; Pat Kearns, 241 Lorimer Street; Miss Ruth Hayes, 12 East 122d Street; Mrs. Mary Abrams, 371 Twelfth Street, Astoria; Mrs. Anna Kundi, 1288 First Avenue; John Piggelli, 340 East Sixty-first Street, and Primo Sofield, 146 East Thirty-fourth Street. All left the hospital within an hour after the accident occurred.

The three cars that were standing in the tunnel entrance are owned by the New York Queens County Railroad Company, while the one that caused the damage is Third Avenue Railway Company property. The Third Avenue car is of steel. The others are of wood construction.

PORTO RICO ASKS RELIEF

Labor Men Tell Wilson Law Is Maladministered.

Washington, June 6.—President Wilson was urged, in a petition carried to the White House to-day by a committee representing the Free Federation of Workmen of Porto Rico, to appoint a commission to investigate labor conditions in the island. It was represented that "the rights, the liberties and the lives of the masses of the people of Porto Rico are placed in jeopardy by the maladministration of the laws."

The Porto Ricans declared that workers on sugar and tobacco plantations were underpaid; that the police had been used to oppress them; that right of assembly and free speech and to strike had been denied; that attempts had been made to minimize the teaching of the English language, and that more than 200,000 children of school age had been left without school accommodations.

SAVES CHILD BY DIVE

Patrolman Rescues 4-Year-Old Girl Who Fell Off Cliff.

Viola Koch, four years old, of 427 East Eighty-third Street, wandered away from her parents yesterday and climbed to a high rock overlooking Eastchester Bay. She lost her balance and fell into the water. Several bathers tried to swim to the girl, but Patrolman McManus, without divesting himself of any clothes, leaped in and caught her.

Several hundred persons in Pelham Bay Park, City Island, cheered the patrolman for his rescue. The girl received first aid treatment from Dr. Wilder, of Fordham Hospital, and was soon able to go home. In endeavoring to reach her Charles Weisenberger, of 307 East Eighty-first Street, sustained cuts on the legs and was also treated by Dr. Wilder.

Y. W. C. A. GIRLS TO CHINA

Twelve to Take Christianity to Far East and South America.

Newly appointed foreign secretaries of the national board of the Young Women's Christian Association will be guests at the board's annual conference this week. The board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian Church will hold a conference at 156 Fifth Avenue, and the Young Women's Christian Association will meet at the national headquarters, 600 Lexington Avenue.

Twenty young women, graduated from colleges, universities and training schools, will be sent out this year to China, India, Japan and South American countries. Miss Katharine of Tokyo, Japan, and Miss Caroline Y. Lee of Canton, China, recently graduated from the National Training School, will return to their home cities to take up association work. The young women to sail from San Francisco in August and September will increase the number of foreign secretaries to forty.

GAME TURNS INTO BATTLE; ONE FAN MAY DIE, MANY HURT

Rival Bronx Nines and Followers Use Bats on One Another's Heads When Only Half of $10 Stake Is Handled to Winners.

The simple matter of a $5 bill was the cause of a free-for-all fight at 134th Street and Crotona Parkway yesterday afternoon between members of two baseball teams and several hundred fans on each side, one of which Harry Schaefer, 134th Street, of 142d Bronx Avenue, was the point of death.

Several more were seriously injured and the police arrested as material witnesses five men who engaged in the fight.

It was the ninth inning of a game between the Kingston Athletics and The Bronx Orioles. The Kingston Athletes come from a district near Bronx Avenue and 134th Street. They are rivals of The Bronx Orioles, whose hangout is in the neighborhood of 127th Street.

As the Athletes put out the last man they rushed in from the field with shouts of exultation and demanded the $10 which was to go to the winners. A $5 bill was handed to their captain, Captain Daniel K. Roche, of 448 East 106th Street; Max Blum, of 1388 Franklin Avenue; Harry Silver, of 3890 Third Avenue, and Samuel Fisher, of 3776 Park Avenue.

This was a signal for the other members of the Kingston nine, Grabbing bats, they rushed at The Bronx Orioles. When the Orions also picked up bats the Kingston brought theirs down on the heads of their opponents.

Hundreds of fans joined in the battle. Little groups formed to fight it out. It was only by the yielding of clubs that the two dozen reserves from the Tremont Avenue station were able to pull apart the hundreds of contestants.

Several, however, could not rise from the ground. One man was unconscious, with his legs bent under him. Half a dozen were helped to their feet by policemen. The unconscious man was Schaefer. A call to Fordham Hospital brought Dr. E. S. Schaefer, who was still unconscious at a late hour last night. The five men held by the police, who is Joseph W. Johnson, a Brooklynite who is suffering from concussions of the head, were released by the captain of the team and rushed for a taxi.

This was a signal for the other

team to present a bill to the police.

It was the ninth inning of a game between the Kingston Athletics and The Bronx Orioles. The Kingston Athletes come from a district near Bronx Avenue and 134th Street. They are rivals of The Bronx Orioles, whose hangout is in the neighborhood of 127th Street.

As the Athletes put out the last man they rushed in from the field with shouts of exultation and demanded the $10 which was to go to the winners. A $5 bill was handed to their captain, Captain Daniel K. Roche, of 448 East 106th Street; Max Blum, of 1388 Franklin Avenue; Harry Silver, of 3890 Third Avenue, and Samuel Fisher, of 3776 Park Avenue.

This was a signal for the other members of the Kingston nine, Grabbing bats, they rushed at The Bronx Orioles. When the Orions also picked up bats the Kingston brought theirs down on the heads of their opponents.

Hundreds of fans joined in the battle. Little groups formed to fight it out. It was only by the yielding of clubs that the two dozen reserves from the Tremont Avenue station were able to pull apart the hundreds of contestants.

Several, however, could not rise from the ground. One man was unconscious, with his legs bent under him. Half a dozen were helped to their feet by policemen. The unconscious man was Schaefer. A call to Fordham Hospital brought Dr. E. S. Schaefer, who was still unconscious at a late hour last night. The five men held by the police, who is Joseph W. Johnson, a Brooklynite who is suffering from concussions of the head, were released by the captain of the team and rushed for a taxi.

This was a signal for the other

team to present a bill to the police.

It was the ninth inning of a game between the Kingston Athletics and The Bronx Orioles. The Kingston Athletes come from a district near Bronx Avenue and 134th Street. They are rivals of The Bronx Orioles, whose hangout is in the neighborhood of 127th Street.

As the Athletes put out the last man they rushed in from the field with shouts of exultation and demanded the $10 which was to go to the winners. A $5 bill was handed to their captain, Captain Daniel K. Roche, of 448 East 106th Street; Max Blum, of 1388 Franklin Avenue; Harry Silver, of 3890 Third Avenue, and Samuel Fisher, of 3776 Park Avenue.

This was a signal for the other members of the Kingston nine, Grabbing bats, they rushed at The Bronx Orioles. When the Orions also picked up bats the Kingston brought theirs down on the heads of their opponents.

Hundreds of fans joined in the battle. Little groups formed to fight it out. It was only by the yielding of clubs that the two dozen reserves from the Tremont Avenue station were able to pull apart the hundreds of contestants.

Several, however, could not rise from the ground. One man was unconscious, with his legs bent under him. Half a dozen were helped to their feet by policemen. The unconscious man was Schaefer. A call to Fordham Hospital brought Dr. E. S. Schaefer, who was still unconscious at a late hour last night. The five men held by the police, who is Joseph W. Johnson, a Brooklynite who is suffering from concussions of the head, were released by the captain of the team and rushed for a taxi.

This was a signal for the other

team to present a bill to the police.

It was the ninth inning of a game between the Kingston Athletics and The Bronx Orioles. The Kingston Athletes come from a district near Bronx Avenue and 134th Street. They are rivals of The Bronx Orioles, whose hangout is in the neighborhood of 127th Street.

As the Athletes put out the last man they rushed in from the field with shouts of exultation and demanded the $10 which was to go to the winners. A $5 bill was handed to their captain, Captain Daniel K. Roche, of 448 East 106th Street; Max Blum, of 1388 Franklin Avenue; Harry Silver, of 3890 Third Avenue, and Samuel Fisher, of 3776 Park Avenue.

This was a signal for the other members of the Kingston nine, Grabbing bats, they rushed at The Bronx Orioles. When the Orions also picked up bats the Kingston brought theirs down on the heads of their opponents.

Hundreds of fans joined in the battle. Little groups formed to fight it out. It was only by the yielding of clubs that the two dozen reserves from the Tremont Avenue station were able to pull apart the hundreds of contestants.

Several, however, could not rise from the ground. One man was unconscious, with his legs bent under him. Half a dozen were helped to their feet by policemen. The unconscious man was Schaefer. A call to Fordham Hospital brought Dr. E. S. Schaefer, who was still unconscious at a late hour last night. The five men held by the police, who is Joseph W. Johnson, a Brooklynite who is suffering from concussions of the head, were released by the captain of the team and rushed for a taxi.

This was a signal for the other

team to present a bill to the police.

It was the ninth inning of a game between the Kingston Athletics and The Bronx Orioles. The Kingston Athletes come from a district near Bronx Avenue and 134th Street. They are rivals of The Bronx Orioles, whose hangout is in the neighborhood of 127th Street.

As the Athletes put out the last man they rushed in from the field with shouts of exultation and demanded the $10 which was to go to the winners. A $5 bill was handed to their captain, Captain Daniel K. Roche, of 448 East 106th Street; Max Blum, of 1388 Franklin Avenue; Harry Silver, of 3890 Third Avenue, and Samuel Fisher, of 3776 Park Avenue.

This was a signal for the other members of the Kingston nine, Grabbing bats, they rushed at The Bronx Orioles. When the Orions also picked up bats the Kingston brought theirs down on the heads of their opponents.

Hundreds of fans joined in the battle. Little groups formed to fight it out. It was only by the yielding of clubs that the two dozen reserves from the Tremont Avenue station were able to pull apart the hundreds of contestants.

Several, however, could not rise from the ground. One man was unconscious, with his legs bent under him. Half a dozen were helped to their feet by policemen. The unconscious man was Schaefer. A call to Fordham Hospital brought Dr. E. S. Schaefer, who was still unconscious at a late hour last night. The five men held by the police, who is Joseph W. Johnson, a Brooklynite who is suffering from concussions of the head, were released by the captain of the team and rushed for a taxi.

This was a signal for the other

team to present a bill to the police.

It was the ninth inning of a game between the Kingston Athletics and The Bronx Orioles. The Kingston Athletes come from a district near Bronx Avenue and 134th Street. They are rivals of The Bronx Orioles, whose hangout is in the neighborhood of 127th Street.

As the Athletes put out the last man they rushed in from the field with shouts of exultation and demanded the $10 which was to go to the winners. A $5 bill was handed to their captain, Captain Daniel K. Roche, of 448 East 106th Street; Max Blum, of 1388 Franklin Avenue; Harry Silver, of 3890 Third Avenue, and Samuel Fisher, of 3776 Park Avenue.

This was a signal for the other members of the Kingston nine, Grabbing bats, they rushed at The Bronx Orioles. When the Orions also picked up bats the Kingston brought theirs down on the heads of their opponents.

Hundreds of fans joined in the battle. Little groups formed to fight it out. It was only by the yielding of clubs that the two dozen reserves from the Tremont Avenue station were able to pull apart the hundreds of contestants.

Several, however, could not rise from the ground. One man was unconscious, with his legs bent under him. Half a dozen were helped to their feet by policemen. The unconscious man was Schaefer. A call to Fordham Hospital brought Dr. E. S. Schaefer, who was still unconscious at a late hour last night. The five men held by the police, who is Joseph W. Johnson, a Brooklynite who is suffering from concussions of the head, were released by the captain of the team and rushed for a taxi.

This was a signal for the other

team to present a bill to the police.

It was the ninth inning of a game between the Kingston Athletics and The Bronx Orioles. The Kingston Athletes come from a district near Bronx Avenue and 134th Street. They are rivals of The Bronx Orioles, whose hangout is in the neighborhood of 127th Street.

As the Athletes put out the last man they rushed in from the field with shouts of exultation and demanded the $10 which was to go to the winners. A $5 bill was handed to their captain, Captain Daniel K. Roche, of 448 East 106th Street; Max Blum, of 1388 Franklin Avenue; Harry Silver, of 3890 Third Avenue, and Samuel Fisher, of 3776 Park Avenue.

This was a signal for the other members of the Kingston nine, Grabbing bats, they rushed at The Bronx Orioles. When the Orions also picked up bats the Kingston brought theirs down on the heads of their opponents.

Hundreds of fans joined in the battle. Little groups formed to fight it out. It was only by the yielding of clubs that the two dozen reserves from the Tremont Avenue station were able to pull apart the hundreds of contestants.

Several, however, could not rise from the ground. One man was unconscious, with his legs bent under him. Half a dozen were helped to their feet by policemen. The unconscious man was Schaefer. A call to Fordham Hospital brought Dr. E. S. Schaefer, who was still unconscious at a late hour last night. The five men held by the police, who is Joseph W. Johnson, a Brooklynite who is suffering from concussions of the head, were released by the captain of the team and rushed for a taxi.

This was a signal for the other

team to present a bill to the police.

It was the ninth inning of a game between the Kingston Athletics and The Bronx Orioles. The Kingston Athletes come from a district near Bronx Avenue and 134th Street. They are rivals of The Bronx Orioles, whose hangout is in the neighborhood of 127th Street.

As the Athletes put out the last man they rushed in from the field with shouts of exultation and demanded the $10 which was to go to the winners. A $5 bill was handed to their captain, Captain Daniel K. Roche, of 448 East 106th Street; Max Blum, of 1388 Franklin Avenue; Harry Silver, of 3890 Third Avenue, and Samuel Fisher, of 3776 Park Avenue.

This was a signal for the other members of the Kingston nine, Grabbing bats, they rushed at The Bronx Orioles. When the Orions also picked up bats the Kingston brought theirs down on the heads of their opponents.

Hundreds of fans joined in the battle. Little groups formed to fight it out. It was only by the yielding of clubs that the two dozen reserves from the Tremont Avenue station were able to pull apart the hundreds of contestants.

Several, however, could not rise from the ground. One man was unconscious, with his legs bent under him. Half a dozen were helped to their feet by policemen. The unconscious man was Schaefer. A call to Fordham Hospital brought Dr. E. S. Schaefer, who was still unconscious at a late hour last night. The five men held by the police, who is Joseph W. Johnson, a Brooklynite who is suffering from concussions of the head, were released by the captain of the team and rushed for a taxi.

This was a signal for the other

team to present a bill to the police.

It was the ninth inning of a game between the Kingston Athletics and The Bronx Orioles. The Kingston Athletes come from a district near Bronx Avenue and 134th Street. They are rivals of The Bronx Orioles, whose hangout is in the neighborhood of 127th Street.

As the Athletes put out the last man they rushed in from the field with shouts of exultation and demanded the $10 which was to go to the winners. A $5 bill was handed to their captain, Captain Daniel K. Roche, of 448 East 106th Street; Max Blum, of 1388 Franklin Avenue; Harry Silver, of 3890 Third Avenue, and Samuel Fisher, of 3776 Park Avenue.

This was a signal for the